

Privacy

When conducting business DTE Training and Safety Skills (DTE) collects personal information. The client is under no obligation to provide such information however; information not provided may inadvertently limit DTE's ability to meet the client's needs.

DTE takes its clients' privacy rights seriously and will always endeavour to keep private information secure. We will conduct business with the Privacy Act in mind and take reasonable steps to ensure both paper and electronic records are secure. Students will be able to access their records by contacting DTE Administration staff and organising a mutually convenient time for viewing. Clients will be required to show proof of identity before viewing any records.

Personal information provided will not be on-sold however; DTE is required to share the information with government agencies as requested in line with VQF requirements.